Convicted Murderer Sought as FBI Nabs Man, Two Women on Coast

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A wealthy sportsman held 24 hours by kidnapers was reportedly unharmed today as authorities sought a convicted murderer they said helped kidnap him.

Anthony Alessio, 41, was released unharmed after $200,000 ransom was paid his kidnapers. Alessio's family had been warned he would be killed if police were called.

FBI agents arrested a man and two women as Alessio's kidnapers and said a fourth man is still being sought.

Recovered $77,500

Agents recovered $77,500 of the $200,000 ransom paid for the release of Alessio, who with his six brothers operates the Caliente Race Track at Tijuana, Mexico.

Ninety minutes after an unidentified man collected the ransom—one of the highest ever paid in the United States—the 210-pound Alessio was discovered handcuffed but unharmed in a San Diego motel.

Word of the kidnaping Tuesday night was kept quiet by the FBI and San Diego police until Friday night, at first to protect the victim and then to prevent tipping their hand to the abductors. Alessio was freed late Wednesday night.

Ex-Convict Held

Those arrested in Los Angeles soon afterward were Robert James Gorman, 29, an escapee from the men's prison at Chino, Calif., where he was serving five

Fight to Bring Watson to Trial For Murder Ends

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A year-long fight to try John J. Watson for murder in the slaying of a suburban housewife was dropped Friday when the state moved for dismissal of the case.

"At this time I am in no position to amplify the reason for dismissal of the charge against Watson," Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley told newsmen. "There will be no further statement at this time."

McCauley told Municipal Judge John L. Coffey that he "cannot in good conscience proceed at this time with further prosecution without possibly causing a grave miscarriage of justice."

Watson, a 37-year-old Negro and convicted rapist, was on parole when Mrs. Edna Mauch, 56, of Nov. 6 at Waukesha Memorial Hospital. His children range in age from two to 14 years.

Mrs. Ida Coates, 57, Route 2, Cuba City, was killed Friday night when the auto driven by her husband, Roy, 60, hit an embankment about 12 miles west of Darlington at the junction of Highways 81 and 126. Coates was injured.

Mother Saves Her Son as He Hangs in Tree

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — Mrs. Floyd Slocum, 29, worked in her home yesterday as her 5-year-old son Gerald and his playmates romped in the yard.

Suddenly a small boy burst into the house and screamed "Gerald is hanging in the tree!"

"He was already blue and not breathing when I got to him," Mrs. Slocum said.

Quickly she lifted his body to ease the pressure on the rope and began pumping his arm up and down vigorously. Russell Moon, her nephew, cut the rope. They laid Gerald on the grass and Mrs. Slocum applied artificial respiration.

Within minutes firemen arrived and went to work with oxygen and a mechanical breathing device.

Gerald's eyes fluttered and his chest rose and fell with his own breathing. Mrs. Slocum cried happily.

"He started crying, and we knew the worst was over," said Battalion Fire Chief B. C. Hilton.

Handbills Decry Cuban Attacks

Roman Catholics Say Propagandists Attacking Church

HAVANA (AP) — Roman Catholic organizations today distributed handbills warning that any attacks on the Catholic University of Villanueva or its rector would be considered attacks on the church itself.

The action followed a sustained propaganda campaign against the university, run by the Augustinian fathers, and its rector, Auxiliary Bishop Eduardo Boza of Havana, because of the expulsion of 17 student supporters of Prime Minister Fidel Castro for "repeated acts of indiscipline."

The campaign recalled the takeover of Havana University earlier this year by groups of pro-Castro students agitating against the old university administration.

The handbills were signed by 13 Catholic groups after an emergency conference here. Plans were made to distribute them at Havana's Catholic churches during Sunday services.

The pamphlets said the government is obliged to support and defend the church, "the integrity of its educational institutions and principles of the liberty of education and culture."

It also said Catholic families had the right to obtain education and religious teaching for their children "according to their beliefs and moral principles."

Deaths Climb As Holiday Draws to End

Thanksgiving Traffic Not as Bad as Other Periods, Council Says

Deaths on the nation's highways climbed steadily today as the normal influx of weekend travel added to the flow of Thanksgiving holiday traffic.

The toll mounted to 223 as the four-day extended holiday period passed the halfway mark. Other violent deaths included 35 in fires and 62 in miscellaneous type mishaps for an over-all total of 320.

The National Safety Council says traffic on Thanksgiving is not as heavy as on other major holidays and made no estimate of fatalities for the period. The council has estimated, however, that 407 persons would be killed in traffic during a four-day weekend period at this time of year.

State Deaths

The deaths of two men in separate Milwaukee area accidents have raised the Wisconsin traffic toll for the Thanksgiving holiday period to seven, and the total for the year to 792, 51 more than on this day a year ago.

Bertram J. Taylor, 47, of Saint Francis in Milwaukee County was killed about 3 a. m. today when his new car, showing only 73 miles, smashed into the concrete support of a railroad bridge in Saint Francis.

A Muskego man, 35-year-old Leonard Courier, father of seven children, was killed about the same hour in a two-car crash on Milwaukee's south side. Courier had to be pried from the wreckage and was pronounced dead on arrival at Johnston Emergency Hospital.

Courier's wife, Doris, 36, died Nov. 6 at Waukesha Memorial Hospital. His children range in age from two to 14 years.

Mrs. Ida Coates, 57, Route 2, Cuba City, was killed Friday night when the auto driven by her husband, Roy, 60, hit an embankment about 12 miles west of Darlington at the junction of Highways 81 and 126. Coates was injured.

Search for Chaplain, Girl Ends in Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A nationwide search for a Wisconsin hospital chaplain and a girl he is accused of abducting ended Friday in a shabby, two-room motel cabin in Phoenix.

The Rev. Lawrence Dudink, 47, a Roman Catholic priest with a history of mental illness, and Rosalie Anne O'Connell, 17, were picked up after an FBI agent spotted the chaplain's car.

Wouldn't Talk

Authorities said the two, missing since Nov. 8, had been in Phoenix for about two weeks. The girl, a high school junior from Gilbert, Minn., refused to discuss her disappearance.

Father Dudink, chaplain of St. Mary's Hospital in Superior, is charged with kidnaping the girl O'Connell, 43, an iron ore miner, "by deceit." She had been undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder at the hospital.

Edward Boyle, FBI agent, said the couple apparently stayed close to the small, out-of-the-way motel. He said the chaplain told him he was low on money and planned to seek employment.

Cashed Check

"The priest cashed a check in him. Flagstaff on the 15th," Boyle said. "and that put him in Arizona. We order, the Rev. Nicholas Bisher, had been spot-checking motels in said Dudink 'has had trouble with blackouts and mental sickness.'"

Father Dudink was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond. The girl was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities.

Superior authorities were expected to arrive today to return the priest to Wisconsin. The state statute under which he is charged carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

No Word

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad O'Connell, left Gilbert by car for Phoenix Friday night. They said they had received no word from their daughter since her disappearance.

The O'Connells were in the midst of a birthday party for another of their children when they were notified the missing girl had been found unharmed.

"It was wonderful news," said Boyle. "It was wonderful news," said Boyle. "It was wonderful news," said Boyle.

Mental Illness

Father Dudink was on loan to the Wisconsin hospital from the Divine Word Missionaries at Techny, Ill. It was not immediately learned what, if any, ecclesiastical action would be taken against him.

A spokesman for the religious "and that put him in Arizona. We order, the Rev. Nicholas Bisher, had been spot-checking motels in said Dudink 'has had trouble with blackouts and mental sickness.'"

Father Dudink was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond. The girl was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities.

NATO Asks Power to Use Nuclear Weapons

A Dallas Mother's Quick Action saved the life of her 5-year-old son Friday, when she found him with a rope around his neck and hanging from a tree. The boy, Donald Slocum, shows his mother and Battalion Fire Chief B. C. Hilton how he tied the rope to the tree limb, then fell. Mrs. Slocum lifted her son up to release the rope's grip, then pumped his arms to restore circulation of air in his lungs.

Delighted Father

Congratulations Pour in for New Kennedy, President Heads Long List

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy was a delighted father taking quick commuter trips between his home and near-neighborhood Georgetown University Hospital today. He was up early for a 10 a. m. trip down the hall from his third-floor room to the nursery, said her mother, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, 31, the boy's autograph.

There was a chance his mother, instead, chatted briefly, and gave him the night supervisor tried to catch up with him with an answer to his inquiry on whether his infant son had been baptized. Immediate baptism is sometimes given in the case of premature babies. The Kennedy child was not baptized, Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, reported later.

The Kennedy's were expecting and to have one of their home problems solved today with the arrival of nurse Luella Hennessey of Walpole, Mass., who has helped out with premature births.

But, Sen. Kennedy himself said he didn't think his wife would see the child for a couple of days.

The baby is expected to stay in the incubator another day and a half, according to what physicians describe as routine physical procedure with premature births.

No Visitors

Meanwhile, visitors generally were being discouraged for mother and child for a few days and no pictures of the new baby will be allowed for a week or 10 days.

Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, was in to see her Friday afternoon while Mr. Kennedy was taking a nap.

Mrs. Kennedy is scheduled to stay in the hospital about 10 days.

Kennedy dropped in on a colleague, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., who is recovering from pneumonia. He visited 7-year-old Paul Thompson of Hyattsville, Md., ill with leukemia. The young-guys had better not always beat the hospital the bad guys.

Parliamentarians From 15 Nations Back Striking Force to Meet Red Threats

PARIS (AP)—Parliamentarians weapons should result only from from 15 North Atlantic Treaty a "specific, deliberate" decision countries today recommended the at a level higher than the command of a military fire brigade—mander of the basic combat element—with nuclear weapons at its mens.

Other resolutions urged greater coordination in the development and production of weapons and greater economic cohesion within the alliance.

Spaak told the 200 delegates a commonly controlled atomic force would be the best means to furnish the alliance efficient means for defense and would also have a psychological effect, notably on the interior cohesion of the Atlantic Alliance.

Session Closes

The resolutions passed at the closing session of the annual conference of NATO parliamentarians carry only advisory weight. They will be sent to the NATO Council for official consideration.

The proposed fire brigade would not necessarily have its own nuclear weapons, although this had been one part of the resolution when it was first debated. The final resolution simply said that the brigade "must be in a position to use" nuclear weapons.

Not Fourth Power

The parliamentarians avoided any mention of NATO as a "fourth atomic power." Their resolution on the eventual control of atomic weapons simply urged the NATO Council to establish its own "political authority" over nuclear delivery systems and their use.

At present, Gen. Norstad needs permission from the White House before employing atomic devices, although he is pledged to consult the NATO Council if there is time.

14 Others

Giving NATO political authority over the use of these weapons appeared to mean that in the future the supreme commander also through diplomatic channels its would have to seek the permission of the 14 other NATO countries and its protests for the grave before dipping into his nuclear arsenal.

Now in Paris, the French born The parliamentarians said the situation in Haiti is too delicate for me to should employ nuclear weapons talk.

Charged With Murder Attempt

MENOMONIE (AP) — Lloyd Webb, 53, of Eau Galle, was charged Friday with attempted murder in the shooting of a cheesemaker in that Dunn County village early Thursday morning.

Leo Buhlman, 58, was reported in critical condition at a Rochester, Minn., hospital with two 22-calibre bullet wounds in his arm and back.

Taken before County Judge Carl Peterson here, Webb was unable to post $5,000 bond and was returned to jail. Arrangement was adjourned until Monday so counsel could be appointed for him.

Party Policy?

HONG KONG (AP) — Comic for good men and a sad ending for bad men," says the official Red China People's Daily, is "spreading capitalist ideologies, distorting facts and violating Communist party policy."

Wrong Idea

"This," says the paper, "is not only wrong but downright poisonous. This gives readers the mistaken illusion that a beautiful future will dawn on them by just being good."

"A beautiful future will never come without a bitter fight," it warns.

Describing comic books as one of the most powerful educational weapons for workers, farmers and young children, it urges artists to follow strictly the theories of Marx, Lenin and Mao Tse-tung.

600 Million

Communist China, according to the official organ, has printed a total of 600 million comic books in the past 10 years. Each copy is ready by at least 10 persons, it adds.

"With such a large circulation, no ideological mistakes, regardless of how small they are, should be overlooked," People's Daily warns.

Senator Lashes Schools Lacking Fraternities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says that "Where fraternities are not allowed, Communism flourishes."

He singled out Harvard University yesterday as a seat of learning which, he said, is a non-fraternity institution which permits Communist and Socialist philosophies to breed what he called a faithless generation.

"Young men who are inexperienced but have faith are more useful than older, experienced men without faith," he told reporters. "And we look more and more to fraternities to provide our future leadership."

In his speech he called the fraternity system "a bastion of American strength."

Need Realism To Face Threat To U. S. Dollar

Europeans Told Outgoing Gold Flow Must Stop

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The United States has served notice on western European governments that, if the stability of the dollar is to be maintained, a start must be made immediately toward a turning of the tide of gold now flowing out of this country.

It shocked the western German government, for instance, to hear such blunt talk and promptly it led to a few inspired news reports criticizing the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury on the ground that he hadn't paved the way for such a startling change. For the last year and a half, however, Mr. Anderson has been telling the diplomats the realistic truth and in the last few months his campaign for a shift in policy has been thwarted not only by some of our own State Department officials down the line but by some of the American embassy personnel abroad.

Adenauer Cautious

The Anderson mission was criticized in Bonn as ill-prepared or ill-advised, according to news dispatches. The West German government, of course, didn't like the bad news they heard. Chancellor Adenauer, with an election ahead of him, was naturally cautious about agreeing at once to some of the requests of the American government. What seems a minus now, however, will certainly become a long-range plus as everybody in Bonn comes to realize in due time that this is not a partisan question in the United States and that the Kennedy administration will have no choice but to adopt the Eisenhower proposals.

Indeed, if Congress should become aroused, as is likely once all the facts are laid on the table, the next thing the businessmen of Germany will be reading about is a series of laws of correction.

Understand Danger

The significant news is not the failure to reach an agreement in the first conference at Bonn but in the tactful statement of Ludwig Erhard, the economic chief in the Adenauer Cabinet, who frankly told the Associated Press that the meeting with Mr. Anderson had been of a constructive nature. Certainly the seriousness of the American dollar position has at last been impressed on the West German government and it is also understood clearly by the British and French governments.

President Eisenhower, realizing the urgency of the whole problem, didn't feel that things could wait for a new administration here to take hold. Incidentally, Secretary Anderson met for two hours at Paris with Vice President-elect Johnson and chairman Fulbright, Democrat, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who were in Paris for a NATO parliamentary convention. They were given all the information about the conference at Bonn and what lies ahead of America. No statement was made afterward but it is reported on good authority that the Democratic leaders fully understand the danger to the dollar's position in the world and how important it is for the United States to be relieved of some of the load of governmental payments now going to western Europe.

Stop Foreign Aid

For, if relief isn't obtained soon, the pressure in Congress for restrictive legislation will grow. A crisis could even arise that would force the revaluation of gold which, of course, will hurt the whole international trade picture and affect adversely business and employment conditions inside the United States.

There are plenty of people in America who would welcome a stoppage of all foreign aid or at least a substantial cut in the program and, if the dollar gets weaker, such drastic action may become inevitable.

It was a painful thing to have to do—to tell the western European governments that America needed their aid immediately in balancing the flow of payments to and from this country, but it had to be done.

The time has come for realism about the threat to America's position today in the monetary world. To get the facts into the open is the only way to prevent a much worse situation. The all-important need of the hour is the defense of the dollar against revaluation. This can be accomplished only by arousing the peoples in allied countries as well as in our own to the alarming nature of the dilemma that faces the best friend western Europe has ever had — the United States—whose flow of funds to Europe has continued without interruption now for 15 consecutive years since the war.

ABC's 'Expedition' Marked for Homework

Adventure, Travel Show Wins Accolade Of Teacher's Instruction to Watch It

BY JINGO
 Most talk about television and education usually revolves about the necessity for public-supported education channels and the terrible drain on young minds caused by constant watching.
 However, one of ABC's programs has won a certain distinction of becoming a homework assignment — as though "young minds" needed encouragement to watch TV.
 The program is "Expedition!" and it is quite worthy of the academic attention. Its format consists of showing films of adventures in far-off places among archaic cultures and the whole program has the overtones of a Sunday afternoon public library lecture on archeology.
 This Tuesday evening the expedition is concerned with "The Lost Kingdom of Arabia." A highlight will be an examination of the route Queen of Sheba took to King Solomon.

Cannon Boom Heard on New 'Battle' Discs

Armed Forces Suite Traces History of Warfare From 1776

BY L. J. KRAMP
AP Newsfeatures
 New records of so-called "battle" music by symphony orchestras cater to hi-fi fans who want something more refined than discs of marching bands.
 For the horn-cymbal-and-drum set there is a dazzling edition of Beethoven's "Wellington's Victory," backed with Grolé's "Grand Canyon Suite." By Morton Gould and his orchestra (RCA Victor). Equally attractive is an "Armed Forces Suite" by Robert Russell Bennett, who is well known for his "Victory at Sea" scores (RCA Victor).
 Additionally, there are new issues of Tschaiakovsky's "1812 Overture." Haydn's "Drum-Roll" symphony, Liszt's "Les Preludes" and "Rakoczy March," and sets of overtures by Wagner, Mozart and Von Suppe.
 By Beethoven
 "Wellington's Victory" was written by Beethoven to commemorate the English-Austrian victory over the French at Vitoria, Spain, in 1813, had thus is a counterpart of Tschaiakovsky's "1812" battle symphony.
 This is no great shakes as music but the new record is stunning sound and highly recommended, especially in stereo, which spreads the drum rolls, fanfares, anthems, and simulated musketry and cannon fire in dramatic fashion.
 With Grolé's score on the other side as a bonus, it is a good buy ranking with RCA Victor's recent fine job on Prokofiev's "Alexander Nevsky" film score, which deals with a Russian victory over Teutonic knights back in 1242.
 Indian yells, the whine of rifle shots and the whirring thud of a redskin arrow highlight Robert Russell Bennett's "Armed Forces Suite," tracing American warfare from 1776 through 1945.
 Most interesting are the episodes on Indian skirmishing (the army bandmen are picked off one by one, right down to the last trumpeter's too) and on the fall of the Alamo, but the World War I airs also are expertly handled by the RCA Victor Symphony conducted by Bennett himself (RCA Victor).
 The new "1812 Overture" is a pleasing performance by the Vienna State Opera Orchestra under Maurice Abravanel with the Deutschermeister Band and historic cannon from the Napoleonic Wars and Laxenburg Carillon (Westminster).

High School Guidance Workers Help Solve Variety of Problems

Every AHS Student Meets With Counselor As He Plans Educational, Career Goals

BY BONNIE BARSTOW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A high school boy complains that girls are making fun of him. A honor student wants help in filling out scholarship application forms.

A teenager from a large family wants a part-time job.

A senior wants to know how to apply for college entrance.

A teacher is having trouble "getting through to" a student in his class and wonders why.

A girl tears her dress on the way to school and needs something with which to mend it.

Police have arrested a boy whom they believe will benefit more from friendship than from punishment.

Colleges, military services and employers want to do recruiting among high school students.

Guidance Task Assistance in solving human problems of many kinds, big and small, is the business of Appleton High School's guidance department, which has been doubled in size of staff this year.

"We believe in the dignity and the unique worth of the individual and desire to assist him in reaching his optimum potential," the two deans and two guidance workers say in their formal statement of purpose.

Guidance enables each individual to understand his abilities, relate them to his life goals and finally to reach a state of complete and mature self-guidance as a desirable citizen of a democratic social order.

Unlike a teacher, a guidance worker has no rigid schedules. He works with the individual rather than with large groups.

See All Students Every AHS student sees a dean or counselor at least once before graduation. Most students see them many times.

The guidance department's work is not discipline, which is administered by the principal's office. Rather, the guidance workers try to help youngsters to discipline themselves so they won't need discipline by the school or other authorities.

For the last three years, Appleton junior high schools have had guidance counselors, so by the time the student reaches tenth grade, he knows what such workers can offer them. This makes the high school's job easier, says Miss Annabelle Wolf, dean of girls.

Two New Workers This year two guidance counselors, Miss Josephine Ward and Donald Taylor, were added to the AHS staff to help Miss Wolf and Charles W. Cook, dean of boys.

Since the number of students per guidance worker now is about 410, the guidance department has more time for each student.

A student's record from his elementary and junior high school years helps the guidance workers understand him. Each student also takes a number of tests during his high school years.

Sophomores are given personality and vocational interest tests. Intelligence and mathematics, language and reading achievement tests are given 10th graders who did not take them in junior high.

As juniors, AHS students take state intelligence tests and achievement tests in plane geometry, shorthand and reading. Seniors are given English and algebra achievement tests and trigonometry aptitude tests.

In addition to these group tests, individual tests are given when more information about a student is wanted. Last year more than 75 AHS students were referred to the testing center for tests given by the public schools psychometric department at the school.

The deans keep a file of information about each student—such things as ambitions, activities, friends, work, recreation, school progress, health of self and family and religion.

Keep Secrets Much of what the counselors learn from the student is kept in confidence. Only if the student says it's all right for their teachers to know about his problems outside of school will the counselor tell.

Often the guidance department refers youngsters to school special services, welfare agencies or other places that may help them. Usually this is done by having the teenager himself go to the other agency. Parents also are contacted.

To help students set their goals for after graduation, the guidance department schedules vocational films and monthly talks by Appleton people in a variety of occupations. The department helps set up meetings of students with representatives of colleges and universities — 43 were here last school year. Students are encouraged to seek interviews with people in occupations they like and to apply for college entrance and for scholarships. The school library and guidance office have many college catalogs and publications about various vocations.

Home Rooms Help Home room periods are used to help orient sophomores to the school and to teach students how to study.

Other duties of guidance workers include advising the student council and school social events, serving on the American Field Service committee and the faculty scholarship committee, making annual surveys of what AHS graduates are doing after leaving school, and helping place students in part-time jobs.

Miss Wolf, who received her bachelor's degree from Lawrence College and master's in guidance from the University of Colorado, taught English at AHS before being named dean in 1952. She is treasurer of the Wisconsin Personnel and Guidance Association.

Cook was appointed as the first full-time dean of boys in 1956, after four years in the Carroll College admissions office. Before that, the assistant principal doubled as dean. Cook received his bachelor's degree from Carroll and his master's in student personnel from Syracuse University, where he also was a dormitory counselor.

Attend Summer Schools The deans have attended numerous summer schools, including a guidance institute at Marquette University which Cook attended through the National Defense Education Act in 1957.

Taylor received his bachelor's in biology at Stevens Point State College and his master's in guidance and counseling from the University of Wisconsin. He taught biology for a year at Seymour Union High School, where he was guidance director the first semester of last year. He attended the NDEA counseling and guidance institute at the UW earlier this year.

Miss Ward received her B. S. degree from Eastern Oregon College, LaGrande, Ore., and her M.S. in guidance and counseling from the UW, where she was an assistant resident at Chadbourne Hall. She also was a residence hall counselor at Eastern Oregon and a graduate assistant for an employment counselors' summer institute at the UW.

Commentator Daly to Wed Justice Daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television personality John Daly will marry Virginia Warren on Dec. 22 in San Francisco. She is the daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren.

Daly resigned this month as president in charge of news and public affairs for the American Broadcasting Co. He has remained in television, however, as moderator of "What's My Line," a Columbia Broadcasting System panel show.

The Warrens, who announced the approaching marriage Friday, said the wedding should be a small family affair.

Virginia, 32, is the oldest daughter of the Warrens.

Daly, 46, was divorced from his first wife, Margaret Christwell Neal last February. They have three children.

Mr. Glenn Arthur
Advertising Director
Appleton Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

As you know, Home Furniture Co. decided to try full-page color advertising for the first time on a regular basis this past August.

The outlook for the months of August through October was definitely below normal. Sales were down throughout the country, we were told, and our own estimates showed that perhaps we could expect a drop of up to 15% during this period in our own business.

With the able assistance of Wilmer Krueger, our Post-Crescent advertising representative, we developed a basically simple full-page color ad layout. The response to the ad was immediate...and continuous over a period of two weeks.

Sales were so encouraging that we decided to repeat the same ad with only a few minor changes. As of the date of this letter, we have used the same general full-page ad layout on five different occasions and are pleased to report that each time the ad appeared results have been better than the previous publication.

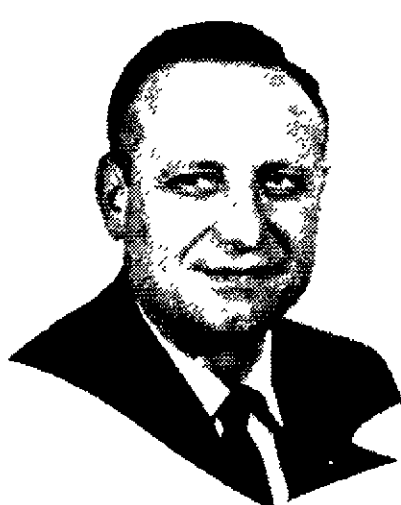

As a result, sales during the period of these five full-page color ads have been from 30% to 35% greater than we had estimated that they would be before we went in to this extensive color advertising program.

Our thanks to your excellent staff, and especially to Wilmer Krueger for his sound selling assistance.

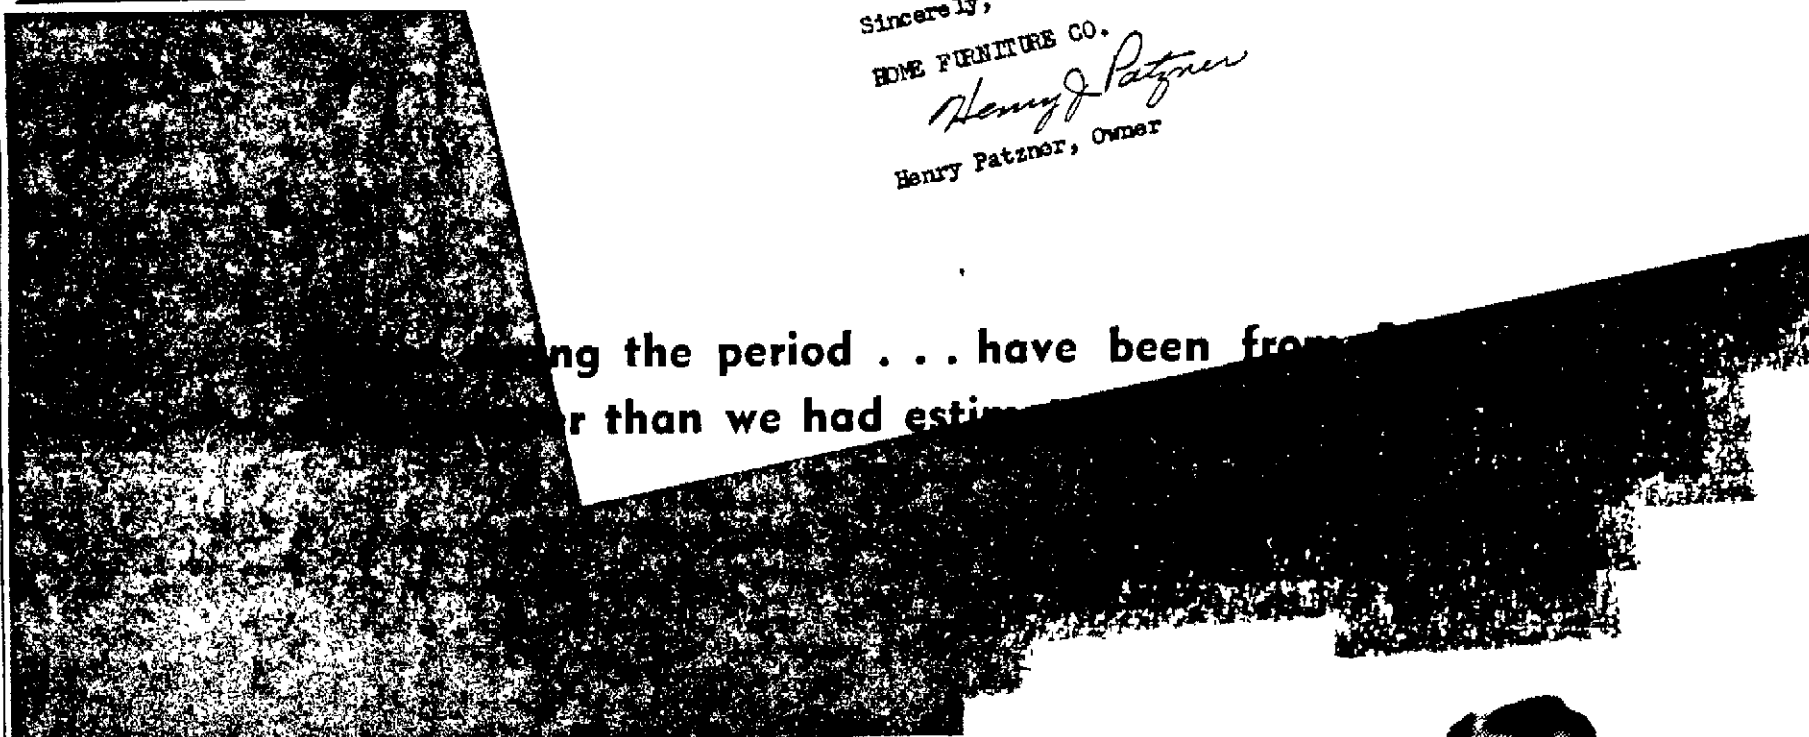

Sincerely,

HOME FURNITURE CO.

Sewage, Waste Age Great Lakes Faster Than Normal

Fresh Water Supply May Dwindle If Organic Growth Continues

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The dry. Even if they were to use the Great Lakes contain the world's water at 50 gallons per person largest supply of fresh water — per day, without replenishment, it would be some 5,500 years before they reached final mud.

But a University of Michigan oceanographer has warned that unless steps are taken to preserve these lakes, "our children's children may be catching rain water or distilling sea water to allay their thirst."

Now U-M Great Lakes scientists believe they may be close to a method which could lead to means of preserving the lakes as a fresh water resource.

The problem isn't that the 66 million people in states touching the Great Lakes will drink them.

No Need for Nearby Ocean To Study Life

Graduate Student At UW Uses Plane To Get Specimens

MADISON — Scientists don't need an ocean in their back yards to study ocean life these days. James I. Jones, University of Wisconsin graduate student from Friendship, essentially a landlubber, is proof of this.

Jones' base of operations is that well-known inland campus, the UW at Madison. But thanks to swiftness of air travel, the student geologist can reach the sea in a few hours, collect his currently favorite marine specimens, and return as swiftly to the Madison campus.

The situation is the same for other UW researchers working under Prof. Roger L. Ballen. With this new-found propinquity and their science talents, they are winning laurels for Wisconsin as "one of the few groups in the country currently doing research on planktonic Foraminifera."

Single-Celled

The "Forams" are much more than a tongue-twisting mouthful. These microscopic protozoans — tiny single-celled animals, but complete with shells — are to be found in all oceans of the world.

Living, they form part of the open-sea, floating, plant-and-animal masses known as plankton. Recently dead, they sink to the bottom, contributing their shells to the ocean bottoms' globigerina ooze. Long expired, they are incorporated as fossils into the earth's rocky layers.

The inquisitive Mr. Jones is interested in all three stages, but before flying off to the Caribbean this month for his latest rendezvous with the sea, he explained that he is first a paleontologist, concerned with the life and circumstances of past geological periods and the fossil remains which are due to it.

Tiny micro-fossils of Foraminifera are extremely abundant in certain strata, he said, and have been important in the building of these rock layers in the ancient seas which Jones seeks to "fathom." This is true of rocks of the middle Mesozoic, 150 million years old.

"But we have to learn as much as we can about today's living animal in order to reconstruct the picture of an ancient environment in which these old similar forms flourished."

Watchdog Stolen

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — "Lady," a 60-pound German shepherd, was trained by Bertram Banks to guard an auto parts store. He complained to police that a thief entered the fenced yard and stole the dog.

Six Appleton Area Men hunting near Phillips bagged their share of deer early the opening weekend of the Wisconsin season. The largest buck weighed 198½ pounds. From left are Louis Kasten, Appleton; Ronald Wolff, Menasha; Bob Vander Velden, Harold Vander Velden and Erwin Luebke, all of Appleton; Clinton Oehler, Appleton, was absent when picture was taken.

Archers Got to Animals First, Riflemen Learn While Hunting

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The things you hear on hunting trips — the hunter spied a bear in a hollow stump, took careful aim, fired. Then he walked to claim his trophy and found it good and dead — from an arrow which had been dispatched during the howl season. Bruin had crawled into the stump and died.

House

both in restaurants and in their camps they eat high on the hog: steaks and expensive cuts.

By season's end, their drinking turns mostly to beer and their eating to hamburger.

Young Eugene Schuster of Marinette took a fine deer and hung it outside of his place. Couple of visitors came along, swiped the deer. Now who is going to persuade him that these lowly fellows were sportsmen?

Rupert Haave, out on a hunt, saw a big doe. He drew a bead and was ready to bring her down for camp meat. Then, out of the woods following her, Haave saw two little fawns.

"I just didn't have the heart to pull the trigger," he said. He went home without game that day.

Four hunters were sitting in their trailer doing the obvious. It was parked on a highway just outside of Mountain. It must have been a hot poker game, because — poof! — the trailer burned up just like that . . .

One hunter reported seeing a bear crawling out from under a tree. He took careful aim and his finger tightened on the trigger. Just then a bear coughed. It was develop a sure method of treating no bear. It was a man on his and measuring the samples in a hands and knees. Fellow was shipboard aquarium, instead of wearing a black bearskin hat having to lower them back into and a dark gray knee-length street the lake. If the method is successful, it will allow several ships to up his mind to go hunting on a cover a wide area in a short length of time.

I noted a remarkable absence of meat hunters. The trend seems to be to use the deer season as a vacation. If a party takes a deer, it's well and good. But many of the hunters use the time to enjoy walking in the woods.

Three of them from Seymour — Earl Spaulde, 43; Elmer Seidel, 40, and Harley Marks, 41, have a gentle philosophy about it.

"It's good to be with friends, and it's good to live a little more primitively than usual. The deer is only incidental to the fun of getting out and away," said Spaulde.

Gilbert Thielke, 67, proprietor of Gilbert's Bar in Lakewood, ran a cheese factory for 36 years and decided to retire. He sold his business, then found that he couldn't just sit around so he took out a beer license for his place.

He's far from retired now.

If you don't want to count the beer sales, then consider in his little store on Main Street, he sold 400 postcards over the weekend. You're right — they were all concerned with deer hunting.

"Deer hunters send a lot of postcards," he said.

Though I checked diligently, I found that deer hunters are not likely to get into trouble despite their high spirits.

The village of Lakewood, for example, protests to a man that there is never any trouble there even if there is some tipping going on.

Hunters Get Deer Near New London

H. David Moran, 1007 W. Beacon Ave., New London, shot a nine-point, 180-pound buck Saturday in the Big Falls area, near New London.

Robert Baldwin, 905 W. Beacon Ave., a hunting companion of Moran, shot a 7-point, 114-pound buck Sunday in the same vicinity.

Shoots 6-Point Buck

Seventy-six year old John Wellhouse, route 4, Appleton, shot his first buck in 10 years Saturday morning. Wellhouse was hunting near Shiocton with Leo Vandervoort, route 4, Appleton; John Wellhouse, Jr., route 4, Appleton; Joe Van Rooy, Kimberly; and Donald Gerhart, route 4, Appleton.

The 6-point buck weighed 174 pounds.

take a little too much, but he's always in a group and the rest of them see that he's all right. They take care of each other," said Duff Bourassa, Lakewood.

One fellow shot his deer and knocked him down hard. He approached the animal and put his deer tag on the deer's gambrel.

But the deer was only stunned. He jumped up and ran away before the hunter could reach his rifle.

He trailed his deer and arrived on the scene just as another hunter was firing at it. The deer went down again. The first hunter politely informed the second one that the deer belonged to him.

Second fellow said: "Prove it."

First hunter pointed to the deer tag attached to the animal's leg.

"Well," said No. 2, "if you can catch a deer and throw a tag on it while he's still running, you sure deserve to keep it."

For the Sportsman

There's Big Gift Supply for Outdoor Man: Choose Them Thoughtfully

Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

All things being equal, Santa is not likely to arrive by boat this year.

Nor is it considered possible that he'll show up behind a brace of bird dogs totting a scattergun.

The old gent, however, is a dead-center cinch to be the bearer of a flock of items calculated to make the hunter or fisherman of the house a happy man.

Outdoorsmen, as a general rule, are a peculiar lot so we'd offer this suggestion to the stocking stuffers of the Fox Cities:

Words to Wise

Try to obtain, if you can, a general idea of what particular item he'll show up behind a brace of bird dogs totting a scattergun.

It keeps the nozzles clean. A pin-point particle of dirt can clog a nozzle. SK-12 does away with sludge, carbon and foreign residue that clog nozzles and vital furnace parts.

It keeps filters gum-free. Filters do their duty longer, better with new SK-12, guarding the system. It prevents dirty, gummed-up filters and keeps oil free from impurities.

It keeps fuel lines open by preventing rust and corrosion that could easily cause a major repair bill. It works from fuel tank to

Kennedy's Margin of Victory

Almost complete, if unofficial, returns from the Kennedy-Nixon election contest indicate that Sen. Kennedy will be the 12th president in the history of the United States named by a minority vote.

During the campaign, almost everyone agreed that the contest could be close. There were some few who hedged with the statement that it would either be close or be a landslide. By that they meant, apparently, that the undecided vote indicated in most polls, was large enough if most of them went one way to turn the election into a landslide. On the other hand, there was always the possibility that they would split fairly evenly as they did. This group of undecided voters sometimes was polled as high as 7 per cent which was plenty for a decisive victory.

Apparently this undecided vote did break evenly with the result that this is the most evenly divided popular vote in the history of the nation. Numerically Kennedy has a present margin of 196,968 votes which is the smallest since 1888 but on a percentage of the 2-party vote the margin was lower than any recorded in a presidential election. Kennedy, according to this report, has 50,145 per cent and Nixon has 49,855 per cent which leaves a difference of only .29 per cent.

It is not strange that such a close election would bring out demands for a reform of the electoral system. Many people do not understand the electoral college idea and think that it might well be eliminated. However, there are many uses for such a system and even those proposing reform have not gone so far as to eliminate the electoral college altogether. The legislation

No Constitutional Convention

Gov. Nelson's commission on constitutional revision has decided against calling a constitutional convention. It believes, however, that the constitution should be thoroughly studied and it proposes that the next legislature create a special commission with enough money to hire researchers to examine the major questions of constitutional revision and to make studies in depth on specific proposals for possible constitutional amendments.

The commission assigned one of its members, Prof. John Conway of the University of Wisconsin Law School, to draw a bill creating a statutory constitutional revision commission. It is proposed that this statutory commission take over the task now assigned to the governor's commission. The present commission feels that it does not have the finances to hire a sufficient staff to carry on this work.

Nevertheless, the commission does have some recommendations. First of all, it proposes that the procedure for amending the constitution be changed. At present the state legislature is required to approve proposed amendments by adopting them at two sessions in the same form by simple majorities before sending them to the people for a referendum. This system might be kept, the commission says, as an optional form but there also should be provision whereby the legislature could propose a change by a two-thirds vote and then send it directly to the people, thus saving two years time in bringing about amendments.

Some proposed changes in the legislature were mentioned as deserving immediate "study, definition and decision." These introduced in 1950, by Henry Cabot Lodge, who was then a senator, proposed retaining the electoral system as a method of counting. However, the present method of giving all state electoral votes to the candidate winning the majority in that state would have been altered to give each candidate the proportion of electors indicated by their popular vote within the states.

This proposal was presented in the form of a constitutional amendment which passed the Senate but failed in the House when a similar law failed to muster even a majority vote, although a two-thirds majority is required for constitutional amendments. If this system had been adopted, however, it would not have changed the outcome of the present election. Under the proposed reform system Kennedy would have received 266.64 electoral votes and Nixon 263.703 electoral votes so that Mr. Kennedy still would be winner by three votes. However, other candidates and unpledged electors would have numbered 6,714 electoral votes.

Under the proposed reform plan the winner would have needed only 40 per cent instead of a majority of the votes cast. This provision was to meet the expected problems arising out of the development of many splinter parties seeking notoriety or bargaining power through their ability to garner a few electoral votes. The fact that such a system would invite many splinter parties probably is the best argument against its adoption.

The closeness of the vote is not important in the matter of naming the president for the coming term but may have a good deal to do with the selection of candidates in 1964.

items were 4-year terms for the governor and other constitutional officers, the creation of a nonpartisan commission for reapportioning legislative and congressional districts, the adoption of a procedure for the selection of judges combining the merits of election and appointments, reducing the number of elected state officers, provision for continuing state government in case of a catastrophe, authority for the state government to borrow directly for such capital improvements as public buildings, relaxing the requirement for uniform system of county and town governments.

Other items which the commission said deserve study included a cabinet system for the governor and home rule for counties and cities. These proposals are all important and certainly of interest to the people. Nevertheless the effects of some of them are difficult to predict. Therefore, it is probable that there will be no change in them until some specific problem relating to them develops.

We think it would be wise for the state government to set up a commission with funds to provide an adequate staff to go into these matters and develop the facts about them. The commission should be non-partisan so that its findings could be accepted and supported by both parties. It would seem that this commission form of constitutional study is highly preferable to a constitutional convention. If we are going to attempt to change the constitution by reducing the time allowed for the study of individual amendments, we should at least have the help of such a commission in presenting the case to the public.

Looking Backward
Wisconsin Among 11 Nullifiers

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Nov. 24, 1960.

The New York Express quotes from the last number of Debon's Review the following list of nullifying states:

Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Vermont, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

The States which deny the use of all public edifices in aid of the masters of fugitive slaves are Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The States which provide defense for the fugitives are Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin. The States which declare the fugitive free, if brought by his master into the State, are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Wisconsin. The State which declares him free absolutely is New Hampshire.

If the people of these States value the Union, let them repeal these obnoxious, illegal and nullifying laws at once. They are a disgrace to us.

Can any man coolly and dispassionately acquit the Northern or "Free States" of all blame in the origin, progress at present state of unfraternal feeling between the two great sections of the Union?

BY STEWART H. HOLBROOK
Long before his death, more than 40 years ago, Jim Hill had become a legend in the American West. Whether he was hero or villain matters little. He died something of a giant in the vast region where many contemporaries came often to think him less a man than an elemental force.

First of all came the blizzards. Then the droughts. Then the Call him an opportunist, a rugged individualist, a pioneer. Jim Hill was probably all three. He built and bought railroads, made sure they had freight to haul, opened up the West, made a pile for himself, and created a legend. Here it is retold by an authority on American railroading.

grasshoppers, and hard on the leaping legs of the parasites came James Jerome Hill, Jim Hill the Empire Builder.

Hill began life with nothing. He died lord of an empire that reached from the Great Lakes to Puget Sound, from the Canadian border to Missouri and Colorado. He had staked out provinces in China and Japan. He died worth $53 million, won in a region so sparsely settled that it was believed by most easterners to be worthless wilderness.

Born in 1838 in Ontario, young Hill arrived at 18 in the raw new settlement at the head of navigation on the Mississippi that was calling itself St. Paul. The town was in its first notable boom. The prosperity was to last a little more than 12 months longer before the panic of '57.

Twelve months, however, was all young Hill needed. Neither then nor later did panics hurt him. Like his contemporaries, Rockefeller and Carnegie, he welcomed them. Panics shook the stuffing out of insecure institutions, leaving useful fragments that able hands might pick up and make into something solid. St. Paul was to remain Hill's base of operations for the next six decades.

Fuel Dealer
His first job was on the St. Paul waterfront, where he made himself useful for an outfit running a line of packet steamers. With his own hands he cut the first stencil for the first label of the first flour made in Minnesota. By 1865 he had set up for himself as a forwarding agent. When winter closed river navigation, his big warehouse was not idle; he converted it into a haypressing establishment. He presently organized what became the Northwestern Fuel Co.—virtually a monopoly—to supply wood for St. Paul; then, having first leased several thousand acres of Iowa coal lands, he introduced that fuel to the city and region. He also contracted to supply fuel to the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, Minnesota's chief source of revenue for corruptionists, lobbyists, and legislators.

Among the older businessmen who had been observing Hill's career was Norman W. Kittson, who was acting as agent for the venerable Hudson's Bay Co. Before accepting this post, Kittson had acted for the independent traders and traders. He continued to act for them. This odd arrangement satisfied nobody, and Kittson proposed to Hill that he might find it worthwhile to devise a way to transport the independents and their supplies from the United States to the fur and farming regions of Manitoba.

The Hudson's Bay Co. was operating what it considered a mon-

A Few Suggestions For New Legislators

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON—The new Wisconsin legislature that will be settling down in the statehouse soon will be distinguished for the unusual number of new members it contains, among other things. Very nearly half of the members of the assembly, for example, will be nervously pushing the roll call buttons for the first time. This may be an appropriate time, therefore, for someone who has been sitting in the bleachers for a long time to offer some hints under the general title of "What Every New Legislator Ought to Know."

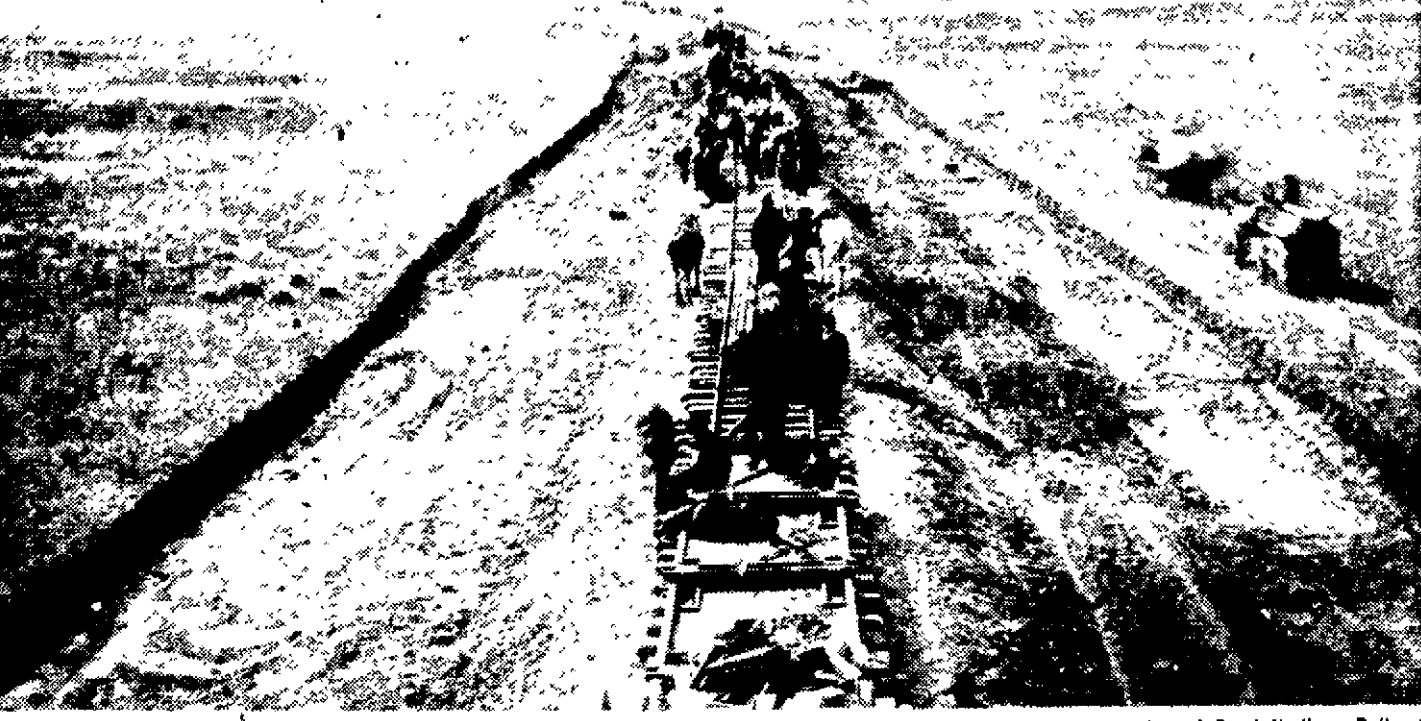

Herewith, then, some admonitions, tips, and warnings.

That crowd over in the west gallery does not suggest that the citizenry has turned out to watch you work. It consists for the most part of hired hands, attending the sessions on behalf of clients who are worried about you. About half of them want to pass

The Legend of Jim Hill

This Flat, Empty Country in eastern Montana typifies the terrain through which Hill built his railroad. In seven and a half months 8,000 men laid oply steamboat line on the Red River. Hill put a boat of his own on the Red. He had taken care to bond his steamers, thus complying with a customs law which, until then, had been a dead letter. The Bay Company's vessels were suddenly barred from carrying freight, and until they complied with the forgotten law the Hill boats enjoyed a lucrative monopoly.

Hill promptly began a rate war against the Bay Company boats. The outcome was a coalition. During its first season the Kittson-Hill combine returned a net profit of 80 per cent.

Yet Hill was not content. He watched the steady decay of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. If they could lay their hands on that streak of rust and corruption, he told Kittson, it could be made into a profitable enterprise. Soon came the panic, and the road went into receivership.

Take Over Railroad

Hill and Kittson, with two Canadian partners, raised $6,780,000 and took over the bankrupt company.

Hill was just 40 when he set out to make something from the dismal remains of the bankrupt line. Directing the job in person, he drove his construction crews at a furious rate. Across Minnesota went the rails, then north to the border to meet the Canadian Pacific.

Two thumping wheat harvests followed completion of the first Hill railroad, the freight traffic grew immense. What had been a trickle of immigrants from Norway and Sweden turned to flood, and not without reason: Hill's agents had been in Scandinavia singing the glories of the Red River. Homesteads could be had free, or Hill would sell them some railroad-owned land at $2.50 an acre.

Jim Hill meant to push the line across the continent to Puget Sound. No other concern — not even his competitors, the Northern Pacific and the Union Pacific — had attempted to build a transcontinental railroad without a subsidy from the government. When his plan became public, his railway was labelled "Hill's Folly."

Moves With Speed

Hill's Folly moved westward with speed, with short feeder lines being built as the main lines went forward. Hill seemed to know just where a branch would become a profitable feeder almost as soon as it was laid.

Hill was ruthless. Near Great Falls, Mont., which Hill's Folly reached in 1887, he showed what he could do to a stubborn com-

643 miles of track. It was one of the great construction jobs: every timber, tie, and rail had to be hauled out from Minnesota.

Control of the three railroads, however, remained with the Hill-Morgan people.

Pacific Trade
Hill's plans became apparent at once. His agents in the Orient prevailed on Japanese industrialists to try a shipment of American cotton to mix with the short-staple article from India they were using. It proved successful. Minnesota flour also began crossing the Pacific in huge volume.

Still Jim Hill was not content. He wanted more. The outcome went into history as the last of the classic railroad battles that had shaken and often entertained the United States.

Under an assumed name, John F. Stevens, Hill's incomparable chief engineer, went into central Oregon to buy options on ranches. He also purchased the charter of a non-existent railroad. Only then did Hill announce he planned to "open up" central Oregon by building 165 miles of railroad.

The news gave Harriman a start. He rightly comprehended that Hill planned to build right on through to San Francisco, and California was a Harriman province.

Mass for War

To parallel Hill's Oregon Trunk, Harriman went to work on the east bank of the Deschutes River laying track. All Oregon watched while the armies of the two railroad generals massed for an old-fashioned construction war.

The opposing crews used dynamite on each other. For close fighting the weapons were shovels, crowbars, and pick handles. The campaign came to a head at the ranch of a man who sold his property to Harriman. There was no other route except through this ranch. Hill decided to arbitrate. A truce was signed by which Hill agreed to build up farther south than Bend, Ore. But west of the Cascade Range the war continued, no longer with violence but with electric lines and coastwise steamships.

This struggle was still going on when Harriman died in 1901. It was not finished in 1916 when Hill died. Only by the mid-1920's, when the Great Northern at last gained entry to San Francisco, over the tracks of the Western Pacific, could the Hill-Harriman wars be said to be over. By then it was something of a hollow victory anyhow, in the very year Harriman died, Henry Ford had had announced his Model T. One era was ending, a new one dawning.

Election Rewards To be State Jobs

First Patronage Committee In Eight Years Established

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The reestablishment of a patronage committee by the state Democratic organization recalls the election of Sen. John F. Kennedy to the presidency will bring its rewards in political jobs to the Wisconsin party in spite of its election reverses on its own ground on Nov. 8.

Democrats of the state have had no patronage connections for eight years during the regime of the Republican Dwight Eisenhower. Although they elected a Democratic governor two years ago, state job distribution opportunities are few because of the rigidities of the traditional Wisconsin civil service system.

The inauguration of President Kennedy in January will center attention on the rewarding of the faithful in this state, and especially since a couple of high and desirable offices are apparently available immediately.

First Prize Job

The first and most desirable prize will be the customary Wisconsin seat on the U.S. District Court of Appeals, which sits at Chicago. Judge F. Ryan Duffy has indicated that he will retire, leaving a vacancy. Historically one member of that bench has come from Wisconsin. Duffy is the former Fond du Lac lawyer and one-term U. S. Senator who was named to the federal judiciary after he lost his reelection bid to Sen. Alexander Wiley, Republican, in 1938.

The plans of Patrick Stone, the U.S. district judge for western Wisconsin, have also caused wide speculation since the election. Stone is eligible for retirement. He has also held his office since the early days of the New Deal a quarter of a century ago. He is a native of Antigo. He has said nothing publicly about his plans. Judge Robert Tehan of Milwaukee, district judge for the eastern Wisconsin district, is considerably younger and got his appointment from former President Harry Truman. Tehan is closely associated with the contemporary leaders of the Wisconsin Democratic party of the state including Gov. Gaylord Nelson and is expected to have a hand in some of the important patronage decisions, however.

Nominally the staffs of the district courts serve for specific terms. But it is presumed that a new Democratic attorney general could replace the federal district attorneys in both Wisconsin districts, if he chose to do so. They are Edward Minor, Sturgeon Bay lawyer, who is now the federal prosecutor in Milwaukee, and George Rapp, in Madison. Both are Republicans named by Eisenhower. The staples in the patronage system are postmasterships. Post offices jobs are fewer since the inauguration of a civil service system which permits appointees to state job distribution opportunities serve indefinitely, but there remains a considerable turnover of duties of the traditional Wisconsin which provides job opportunities for the faithful workers of the party in power in Washington. There are relatively few postmasters of GOP selection who have not yet been confirmed, in spite of the fact that the Democrats have held control of the U.S. senate. Most of the unconfirmed nominees are in western Wisconsin in the Ninth Congressional District, apparently because of the intervention of Rep. Lester Johnson, Democratic congressman. Thus they could be replaced by a Democratic administration and Johnson probably would have a hand in the selection of Democratic successors.

Party Responsibility

In much of the earlier period when the Democrats controlled the White House and patronage the Wisconsin job distribution responsibility fell to party officials, including the national committee-men, because the Democrats had not elected Wisconsin congressmen or senators. Under Kennedy the local patronage choices will be settled by Sen. William Proxmire, the four district Wisconsin congressmen, the two Democratic national committeemen and the state Democratic headquarters.

in the Ninth Congressional District, apparently because of the intervention of Rep. Lester Johnson, Democratic congressman. Thus they could be replaced by a Democratic administration and Johnson probably would have a hand in the selection of Democratic successors.

Basic Rules on Baby Feeding Outlined for Worried Mom

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. id's first, but how do I explain

"Dear Dr. Molner: My first that to her? baby is 4 months and weighs about 14 pounds. She seems to be a happy little girl and I want to keep her that way.

"My doctor told me to start her on solid foods at 3 months. He said to give her as much as she wants, but most of the time she doesn't want any. Every feed-lax somewhat.—Mrs. G.F."

"After she has had her formula, she isn't interested in solids. I know she should have the solid make a battle of it. Mealtimes for anybody should be pleasant, and that's especially true for babies who are just learning what the world is about.

Second rule: Make the transition gradual. Mix the solid food (that is, the strained baby food) with a bit of milk to make it thinner, if necessary, so it's a gradual change for baby from milk to slightly thicker milk, to straight baby food.

Sometimes it helps to keep the bottle well out of sight until a spoonful or so of the baby food has been eaten. (But don't make an issue of it. Your goal isn't to force your child to eat solid food at any given feeding: your goal is to help her make the easy and natural transition to solid foods.)

And third, don't sell nature short! When your doctor says to let baby "eat what she wants," that's exactly what he means. Because babies, not having had their accurate little appetites distorted by a lot of adult foolishness, will tend to eat what they need — neither more nor less. Don't, I adjure you, worry about overfeeding her, because in this case she isn't eating any solid foods — so you say!

And as to underfeeding, let's not worry about that, either. If she is getting too little food, one of these days she'll be hungry enough at feeding time to take aboard a helping of the solid (strained) baby food — and like it.

Don't insist on a basic schedule of how much of this, that, and the other you should feed your baby. Put first things first. First a balloon organ. There are 35 units.

I hate to say this, Mrs. G. F., but you ARE taking the job of mothering a little too seriously. Take it easy.

Various Causes

"Dear Dr. Molner: What, in my opinion, would cause the muscles in the back of the leg from the knee to the ankle to ache?—Mrs. H.J.A."

Avoid Battles

The first rule of introducing solids, solid foods to a baby is not to make a battle of it. Mealtimes

Giant Balloon Parade Set For Monday

Animals, Cartoon Characters Among 35 Inflated Units

About 5:45 p.m. Monday, giant animals, cartoon characters and weird imaginary creatures will invade College Avenue.

The first, giant balloon parade to be held in Appleton will precede west on College Avenue to State Street, where it will turn north and terminate in the park. Because babies, not having had their accurate little appetites distorted by a lot of adult foolishness, will tend to eat what they need — neither more nor less. Don't, I adjure you, worry about overfeeding her, because in this case she isn't eating any solid foods — so you say!

Over 20 tons of equipment are needed for the parade. About 150 boys will manage the floats. Included will be an 18-foot balloon horse, a 35-foot balloon organ, a sea serpent 35 feet long, an ark, various animals, Santa Claus, a two-headed dragon and a balloon organ. There are 35 units.

Also scheduled to appear are several bands and the Lawrence College ROTC color guard.

The parade is being provided by Jean Gros, Inc., Pittsburgh. Almost a full day will be needed to set it up.

Haiti Bishop Says He Can't Explain Haitian Charges

PARIS (AP) — Catholic Archbishop Francois Poirier, expelled from Haiti two days ago, returned to his native France today saying, "The situation in Haiti is too delicate for me to talk."

He repeated his firm denial of the charge by Haitian officials that he gave $7,000 to a Communist-inspired campaign in an attempt to overthrow President Francois Duvalier.

The churchmen said he had no plans to go to Rome to report directly to the Vatican.

Poirier, 54, who was the highest ranked Catholic prelate in Haiti, said about 150 French-born priests remain on the island, along with some nuns.

Siamese Suitor Under Order to Stay Home

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Herman, 14 pounds of restless feline was under court order today to stop courting the Siamese next door.

"Guess I'll have to keep the poor boy locked up," said Mrs. Russell H. Bowler after Superior Court Judge Ralph E. Hoyt issued a temporary injunction Friday.

The Siamese owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cook, want the injunction made permanent along with an award of $4,000 in damages.

For the present, yellow-striped Herman is certain not to be a trespasser. He is in a pet hospital, the victim of a mysterious mauling.

Romantic Musical Has Israel Setting

NEW YORK (AP) — A romantic musical about present-day Israel is on Broadway's producing prospectus for next season. It would be the first with such locale.

Tentatively titled "Ruth," the project has been written by Don Appell, libretto, and Jerry Herman, score and lyrics. For authentic atmosphere, the pair wrote "Ruth" in Israel last spring.

The story concerns the romance of two middle-aged Americans who meet during a visit to the young nation.

Henry James Novel To Become Musical

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry James' novel, "The Ambassadors," will come to Broadway in the form of a musical before the year is out.

Jim Downey Jr., who has unrestricted rights to the novel, reports that Worthington Miner is writing the libretto, Don Gohman, the music and Hal Hackady, the lyrics.

Latest Experimental Meteorological Satellite on Course, Thanks to Bell Scientists—to Aid in Weather Forecasting

THE DAY of operational weather satellites is one step closer with the orbiting of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Tiros II.

An on-the-job, working satellite, the TV-equipped Tiros II will take pictures of cloud cover and transmit them to earth for limited, experimental use in forecasting weather.

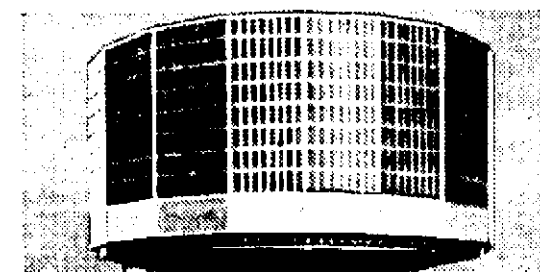

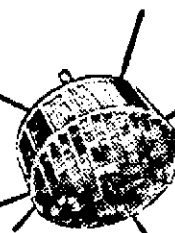

But despite its many instruments—TV cameras, tape recorders, solar cells and antennas—Tiros II would not be as useful if it were not in a nearly perfect circular orbit, made possible in large measure by the Bell Telephone Command Guidance System.

To provide accurate weather data, the satellite must be at an almost uniform distance from the earth at all times. Tiros II's orbit varies within extremely narrow limits as it constantly circles the earth.

Our Command Guidance System for the Tiros launching vehicle is a result of research and development by Bell Telephone Laboratories and production by Western Electric. This amazingly accurate system has scored many other successes in America's space program.

It has guided the successful Air Force Titan ICBM firings, and it helped make possible the first nose cone recoveries after flights of ICBM range. It also guided NASA's Tiros I and Echo I into their carefully planned orbits, and will be used in other forthcoming space probes and satellite launchings.

More than 9000 solar cells—an invention of the Bell System—ring Tiros II and provide power for its instruments.

Bay Alderman Arrested for Disturbance

Drove Wrong Way To Police Station To Report Violators

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Ray J. Geurts, 19th ward alderman - supervisor, went to the police station last night to report a parking violation and ended up spending the night in jail and facing a charge of creating a disturbance.

Geurts, a member of the city council protection and safety committee, was arrested about 1:30 a.m. today after appearing at the police station for the second time in a half hour to complain about cars parked at N. Washington and Cedar Streets.

He told a reporter that he was headed for Galiano's Pizza House, "to have a malted milk with a raw egg in it like I usually do."

He said he had "six or seven beers" during the evening.

The alderman said he saw a car coming from the west on Cedar Street, just miss two cars parked in a no parking zone in front of the pizza shop. He headed for the police station to report the parked cars.

He admitted that he drove the wrong way on a one-way street along the way.

Lt. Fred Pauls said he arrested Geurts when he became noisy and abusive and made "all sorts of wild accusations" about city police using favoritism in enforcing parking regulations.

Geurts was to meet with police today.

Firemen Save Part of Barn Near Darboy

23 Head of Cattle, Large Equipment Taken From Building

DARBOY — Firemen of the Town of Harrison and Town of Buchanan combined to save part of the barn and silos on the farm of Mrs. John Dietzen Friday afternoon, but a cattle barn wing, a machine shed, a granary, a garage and considerable grain was lost.

The barn is leased from Mrs. Dietzen by V. E. Quackenbush, 1305 W. Oakcrest Drive, Appleton. He said he was able to get 23 head of cattle and his large equipment out of the barn.

However, the loss of the grain, Quackenbush estimated, was about $610. He estimated the loss of the cattle barn wing at about $25,000.

The fire was discovered outside the hay mow by one of the eight sons of Mr. and Mrs. Al Thomack, who rent the farm house from Mrs. Dietzen. The elder Thomacks were not at the farm at the time of the fire.

The alarm was called about 1:45 p.m., Mrs. Dietzen said. The western Town of Harrison and the Town of Buchanan fire departments responded and Western Condensing Co. sent a tank of water to the farm to help fight the fire. The hay barn and the silo were saved with a minimum of scorch and smoke damage.

Fire Destroyed a Wing of the barn on the Darboy farm owned by Mrs. John Dietzen about 1:45 p.m. Friday. V. E. Quackenbush, Appleton, who leases the barn from Mrs. Dietzen, was able to rescue 23 head of cattle and most of his large equipment. The cattle barn, machine shed, granary filled with about $610 worth of grain, and a garage were destroyed. One of the eight sons of Mr. and Mrs. Al Thomack, who rent the farm house, discovered the fire outside the hay mow. The structural loss was estimated at $25,000.

DE PERE — The U.S. Paper Mills Corp., De Pere, will celebrate its 25th anniversary Monday with an open house.

Guests will be employees, their families, city and school officials, members of local service clubs and the Chamber and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The plant employs 62 workers, with annual pay roll of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

The mill was purchased in 1935 by Harold Schilling and M. E. Feltenstein, president and vice president respectively.

Production has tripled and several major additions were built to house new equipment. Most recent expansion was to provide room for development of a core-making process utilizing the firm's chipboard stock.

Play Game When Sorting Laundry

Remember the old game: "Is it animal, vegetable, or mineral?" It is a good one to play when you sort laundry for automatic laundry appliances. Cottons and linens, for instance, are vegetable fibers. They absorb water rapidly and can be washed and dried together. Silk and wool are animal. Silk needs very light drying and should be removed from the gas dryer when damp. Wool should never be thoroughly dried. The synthetic fibers are made of minerals. They vary in drying qualities so be sure to follow manufacturers' directions for these fibers.

Important Tip

When it comes to cosmetics, washing off is as important as putting on.

Letter Writer Wonders If Pen-Pal Is Boy or Girl

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This on her posterior. If the kids turn out good they are a chip off the old block. If they turn out bad, everyone. —Especially Me

Dear Especially: You have my deepest sympathy. I'm well acquainted with the type. They seem to have three mouths and no ears. The amateur ad-lib artist often confuses lack of preparation with "spontaneous wit." Before he reaches the audience, the audience has reached the exits.

For some unfathomable reason a husband will listen last to the one who loves him most... his wife. So, if you can get the head of the program committee to give him a strong hint (in writing) before his next speech, it may help. Suggested line: "Please, five minutes of a prepared speech. The program is long and we would appreciate your cooperation."

Dear C. E.: If after three letters from Masako you are unable to tell if you're corresponding with a boy or a girl—skip it because it doesn't make any difference.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Any girl who thinks women have equal rights in this country is just kidding herself. If a man's trousers are too tight he's just put on weight. If a woman's skirt is too tight she's trying to be sexy. If a man stands on a corner, he's getting fresh air. If a woman does it she's looking to be picked up. If a man has one drink too many, "it slipped up on him"—if a woman gets a little bit tight she's a lush. If hubby has a night out with the boys, he's entitled to it. If his wife has a night out with the girls, she's up to no good and ought to be at home with her family.

He's very active in civic and cultural affairs so he is often called on to "say a few words." He drones on about trifles and everyone keeps hoping he'll drop from exhaustion but he never does.

Our Children

Silence, Not Sullenness, Preserves Peace, Quiet

BY ANGELO PATRI

Too often parents and teachers overlook the fact that the children have their side of the situation and that it looks big to them and it is. A troubled girl writes her side and it looks as though she was taking plenty of the sort of treatment that drives teenagers to look for peace and some appreciation other than home.

"I wish I could live where people had quiet voices, where one was not forever in the wrong, where occasionally one's word was accepted as truthful."

Stops Allowance "If I answer back and say I am not a liar my mother stops my allowance. If a boy shows me the slightest attention I am accused of wantonness and forbidden to leave the house except under escort of a member of the family. Nobody here has time for this, nor the inclination, because it is quite uncalled for. If my mother does some little thing for my brother, like ironing his blouse, she makes such a fuss about it that he wishes she would not bother. What can we do?"

Children are helpless under such conditions. A mother that behaves in such a fashion is ill and needs the services of a physician. In time, this will be provided but often it comes too late to save the home.

Because such conditions exist we, as a people, are becoming more and more concerned about mental health of children and parents and are trying to do something about it. Teachers are searching for the cause of pupils' failures nowadays and trying to remedy them instead of disciplining the children first and blaming them wholly for their failures.

To the children who must endure trying conditions at home I would say, "Be patient a while. Hold your temper and your tongue. You will never be sorry for what you did not say. Silence without sullenness is the best way to help preserve peace and soothe the unhappy disturber for unhappy he assuredly is."

The children who are made unhappy and uncertain at home often find peace and strength in an understanding teacher. An understanding teacher is often a bulwark of strength to them, a source of courage and cheer leader who manages to encourage the hurt ones to stand fast and keep trying to overcome their difficulties.

Few of us grow up without facing some sort of trouble, without being forced to achieve a purpose under hard pressure of one struggle or another. Struggle, overcoming, keeping steadfast to a wholesome purpose is what builds power in body and spirit. Patience, children, and keep trying. And learn the values of silence.

The Golden Years

Wife Says Firm Should Prepare Men to Retire

BY THOMAS COLLINS

John W. Smith, President, The Company City

Dear Mr. Smith: You sent by 65-year-old husband home with a pension a week ago last Monday.

My impulse at the time was to phone and ask why you hadn't pinned a note to his lapel — as teachers used to do with my children — telling me what to do with him.

My impulse now, almost two weeks later, is to send him back to you.

What do you expect me to do with this dispossessed soul you have sent home? And since you have had the best hours of his life for the best years of his life, why shouldn't I send him back for you, instead of me, to take care of what is left of him?

Start Researching Business executives such as yourself, who are researching everything these days, had better start researching the custodians of the employees you find too old to keep. The custodians, as you must know, are wives.

I am not a militant wife. I think I carry in my heart a bit more affection than most women do for the balding, thin-legged, fat-stomached spouses you send home at 65. But I have some intelligence on this matter: I also have the courage to write you what I, as a 64-year-old wife, think.

You do not train, condition or otherwise prepare a 65-year-old husband for the domestic life he must live when he retires. As a night time, weekend resident of home he does not know how to perform at home during the daylight hours. And however he performs, it throws out of gear the evenings and weekends he previously knew how to handle.

Company's Problem It is your problem because you would not discard one other single thing in your business without paying to get it discarded. You pay somebody to burn the old booklets on a variety of subjects including child training. If you would like to have his booklet use of the pastures you can put No. 303, "Feeding Children," send bands you discard at 25 cents in coin to him, care of old horses out too. But you dump this paper, P.O. Box 99, Station the husbands you discard at 65 G, New York 19, N.Y.

on their wives. I don't say you should or shouldn't pay wives for taking care of these squeezed-out lemons, but it seems reasonable for wives to expect you to condition these husbands in some way to be the domestic animals they are going to be from now on. A six-month school of company time perhaps?

You are saying by now that I am a stupid woman, that the company gives pensions to take care of all this. If you think thus you are stupid. The pension is given to the husband as rightful extension of what the company owes him for his years of service. If the husband retired to an institution and lived a single, hot-house existence from then on, well and good. But a husband's retirement is not just his problem or his company's. It's his wife's and his how fast, is for the old horse in the pasture.

No Such Image You and the company, along with other businesses, have created an "image" of the retired man... a handsome, erect fellow with a handsome, shapely wife, going off with his pension to live things up in the sun. Not one wife in 20,000 ever finds such a man. Santa comes home at 65.

There are some things you can do:

(a) You can request, instead of suggest, that all husbands cut their wives in for part of their pension, seeing to it that the wife has some sort of income for whatever her life expectancy is.

(b) You can require that all husbands take rugged physical examinations, starting at age 55, in order to assure that they will live longer in retirement to give companionship to their wives.

(c) You can bring a lawyer into whatever retirement program you have (along with the clerk in the personnel office who tells prospective pensioners where the Social Security office is) in order to tell husbands to write a will, and how to write it: in order to tell them how to sell or buy a house and how to approach their income tax.

(d) You can condition a husband, as I suggested earlier, for the domestic life you send him home to.

These five points are enough now from a wife who has taken over as the wet nurse of one of your retired employees. If you answer me with anything beyond the usual man-made platitudes of a man-operated world I will tell you more.

Sincerely, Mrs. Retired Man's Wife.

NOW is the time to give your heating system a tune-up and cleaning.

MENASHA — Several Menasha mathematics and some should be able to take biology. High School administrative changes, recommended by Northwestern University's study team, are in effect, Prin. L. A. Wienbergen has informed the board of education.

This is the fourth in a series of five articles explaining what recommendations of Northwestern University's study of Menasha public schools have been put into effect. The survey field work was done in March and April 1959 and the report given in November 1959.

Long-range plans include honor mathematics and science courses and moving the upper special education group to Butte des Morts Junior High School.

Progress has been made in:
1. Having fewer departmental chairmen with combined functions and some released time for planning.

2. Securing another science library, by having estimates of costs to convert an art room.

3. Reducing teacher load. If money is available in future school budgets, more than the slight reduction can be made.

4. Offering four years of foreign language — Spanish, to be begun in fall 1961.

3rd Year Home Economics
5. Offering a third year of home economics, new this year.

6. Assigning mathematics teachers to teach only that subject.

7. Improving curriculum guides in all departments.

In the future, Wienbergen recommends, world history should be taught in grade 10 and American history in grade 11. All ninth graders should be required to take under control.

Zephyrs Turn Back St. Benedict 72-45

Post 23-7 Advantage in 3rd Period in Chalking Up 12th Straight Win; Becker Hits 23

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — St. Mary did its best point producing in the third period, the same frame that St. Benedict was at its worst, and the result was a 72-45 win by the Zephyrs over the Milwaukeeans Friday at the Menasha High School gym.

The victory was the second of the young season for the Zephyrs and No. 12 straight, including a carry of 10 from the finish of last season. Their most recent loss, incidentally, was to this same Pacer club, back on Jan. 31.

After a so-so first half in which they accumulated a 10-point bulge at the intermission, the Menashians poured 23 points through the rim in the third segment while limiting their opponents to a mere seven — or a commanding 57-31 advantage going into the final eight minutes.

Ahead by an unsafe 36-30 after being outscored 6 to 2 in the early moments of the third frame, St. Mary connected for nine straight points. After permitting their foes a free throw, the hosts continued to romp with a skin of a dozen more.

The big third period included 10 baskets in 26 attempts and 3 for 4 from the foul line. Bill Becker had seven points, Jim Koerner six, Jerry Laemmrich four and Dave Eckholm, "Cy" Young and Bob Rueckl two each.

Tom Campbell hit three long jump shots for six of St. Benedict's points and Bob Williams contributed a free throw.

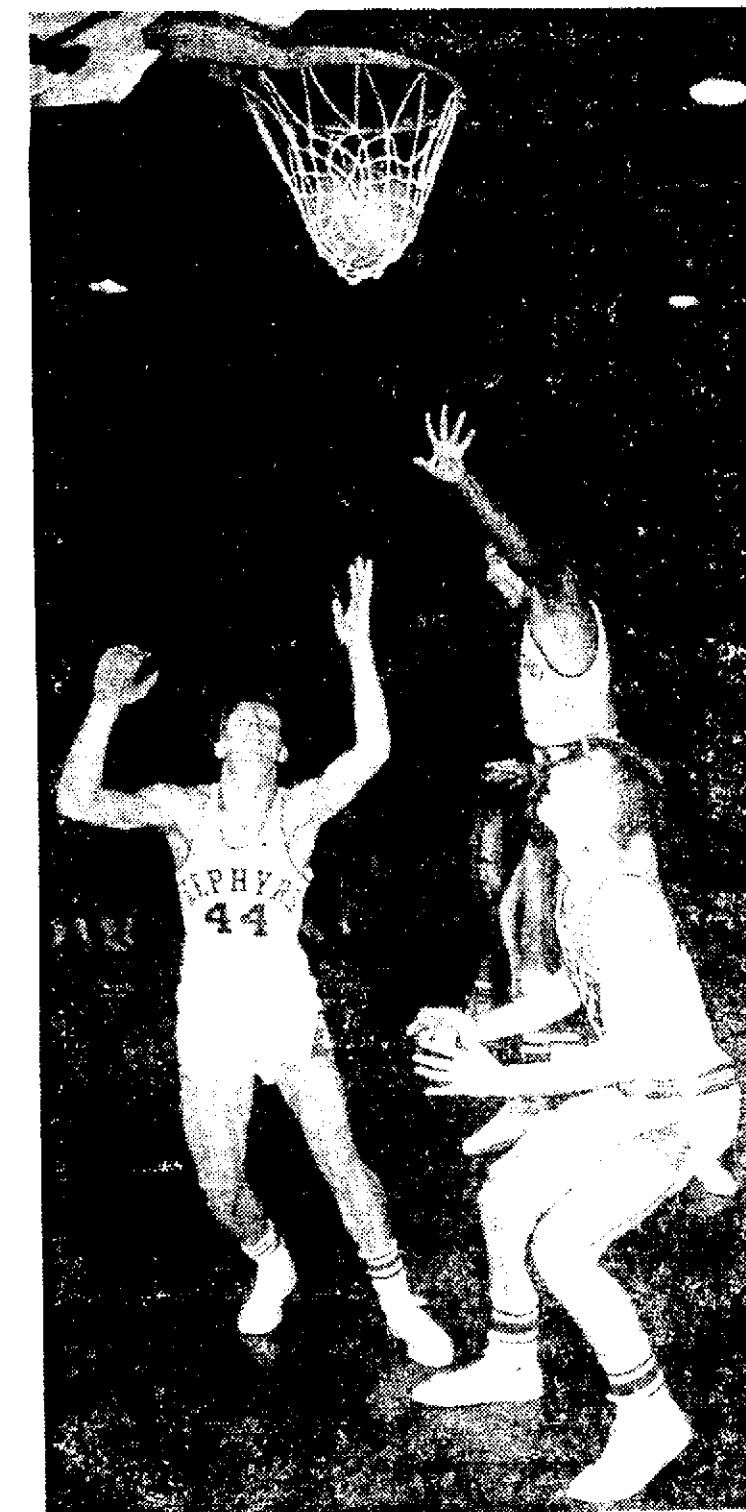

29-Point Lead
St. Mary's narrowest advantage in the last period was 22 points at 59-37 and its widest was 29 at 68-39.

Three quick baskets sped the Launch Defense of Crown; St. John 'S' Plays Exhibitions

NEENAH — Hewitt's is scheduled to visit Green Bay tonight where it will begin defense of its Badger Amateur Basketball Association championship.

Tonight's fracas will be preceded by a contest between the St. John Church Industrial League team and Fox Valley Cab of Appleton.

They continued to pour it on in the second 20-minute segment, scoring frequently off the fast break.

Braves' Season Opener Set at Home April 11

Release Schedule
Before NL's Reply
To AL Proposal

The Milwaukee Braves today announced their 1961 home schedule and the start of season ticket sales—both based on the conventional 77 home games.

In making their traditional early announcement on the schedule, the Braves imply that they don't believe any of the revolutionary changes the American League is requesting will go into effect in 1961.

The AL has asked the National League to go along with its plan for 9-team leagues, 166-game schedules (83 at home) and inter-league games. The NL is expected to reply officially by Dec. 5.

The Braves are scheduled to open their season at home April 11 against St. Louis.

The home schedule:
Apr. 11—(H) St. Louis	Apr. 13—(H) St. Louis
Apr. 14—(H) St. Louis	Apr. 15—(H) St. Louis
Apr. 16—(H) St. Louis	Apr. 17—(H) St. Louis

Four players scored in the double figures for the unbeaten Foxes. Verlyn Dobberstein, Darrell Mindel, Dennis Dobberstein, and Dave Schweppe made up the "Big Four."

The game was tied three times, the last of which came in the early moments of the second quarter, 14-14, as Mindell sank a free throw to wash out the only Dutchmen lead.

Ahead by 1
With Verlyn Dobberstein hitting three long jump shots, the first period ended with FVL ahead by a slim 13-12 margin.

Free throws by Gib Hietpas and Ken Diedrich gave the visitors a temporary one-point lead. However, the Foxes managed to regain the lead and take a half-time advantage of 21-18.

The Dutchmen tried hard in the third period, but whenever they were within a point or two the Foxes retaliated. Mindell's rebound with 10 seconds left gave the Foxes a 33-30 third period lead.

A free throw and jump shot by Ken Diedrich narrowed the margin to 35-33 but the Foxes then went on a 10-point spree.

Verlyn Dobberstein led the Foxes' attack with 13 points, but balance was provided by Mindell.

NOTES and NOTIONS

The Wisconsin-Marquette and the Lawrence college football seasons are a study in opposites. While the Vikes got stronger as the season progressed, the two state universities tailed off badly. MU won three of its first four games and seemed a cinch to have a winning campaign. But a rising injury toll and diminishing confidence combined to spell disaster. "Liz" Blackburn will have to restore that confidence next season. Of course, Blackburn-recruited material should start paying dividends in '61. Removing another Big 10 team (Indiana) from the schedule won't hurt anything, either. The Warrior schedule is getting to look more realistic all the time — they're adding teams of similar talent levels and dropping the powers.

It's possible that Wisconsin, which won its first three games, never recovered, psychologically, from that last-minute loss to first-ranked Iowa. But, more likely, injuries to Ron Miller and Pat Richter squelched hopes for a big season. Miller hobbled through three or four games, his efficiency impaired. And Richter missed the final three games. Not only was Pat a tremendous pass catcher in his own right, but his mere presence in the lineup created more openings for other pass receivers.

When Jim Ninowski scored three touchdowns against the Rams, he became only the third Detroit to accomplish the "hat trick". The others to do it were Dutch Clark and Ernie Caddell, famous Lion names from the past.

Any Packer who neglects to tape his ankles before a practice or a game and then suffers an injury can expect a $250 fine. Vince Lombardi, who suggested the levy while a member of the Giants' coaching staff brought it with him to Green Bay. The theory behind the stiff fine is that an ankle injury caused by negligence hurts the whole team.

For their extraordinary support of Lawrence College football in '60, Kaukauna's Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lamers have been designated by Vike Coach Bernie Heslton as the "parents of the year." Their son Joe won the family's first accolade—all-Midwest Conference honors as an end.

Lawrence ended its current series with St. Olaf on a victorious note. The Vikes won't meet the perennially-rugged Oles in '61 or '62. Since the MC re-admitted Beloit, each team plays only eight of the nine members each year. For the last two seasons, Cornell was Lawrence's "bye" team.

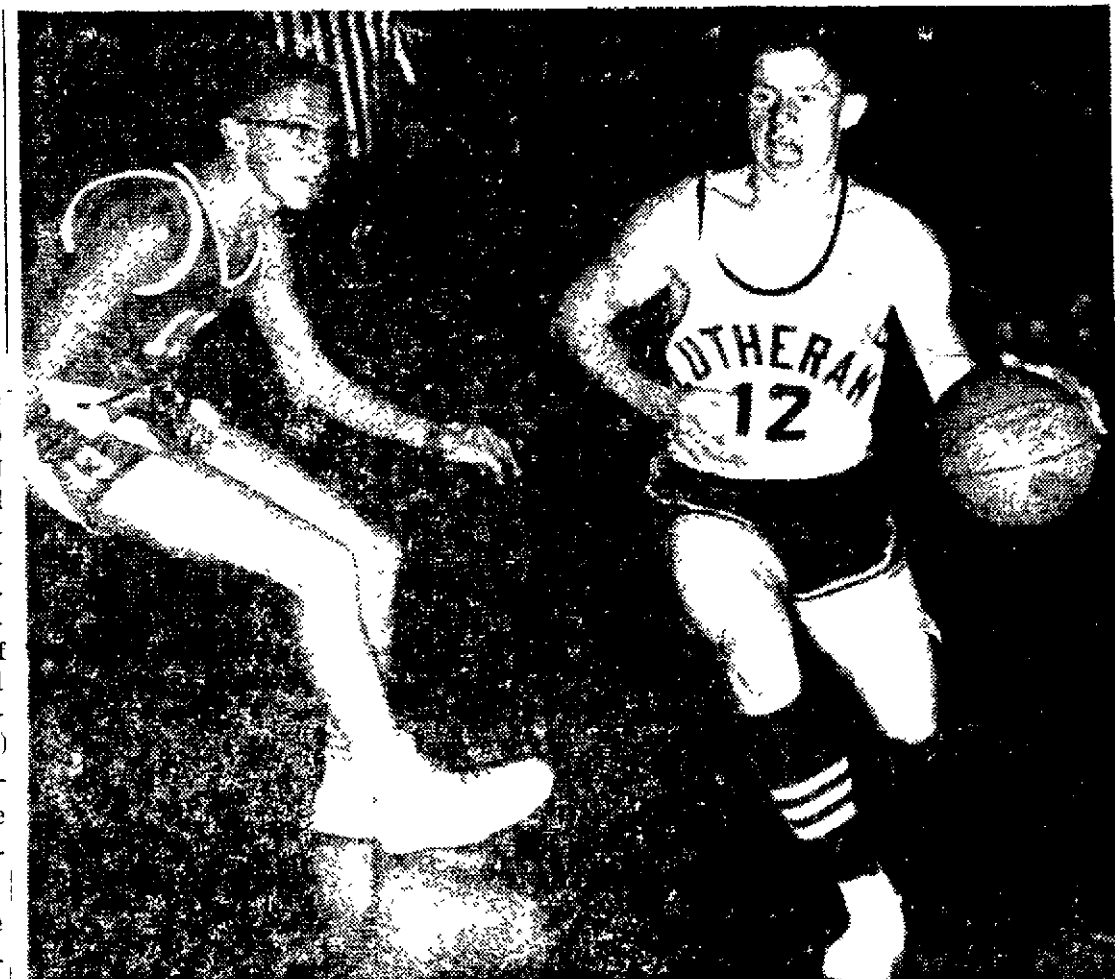

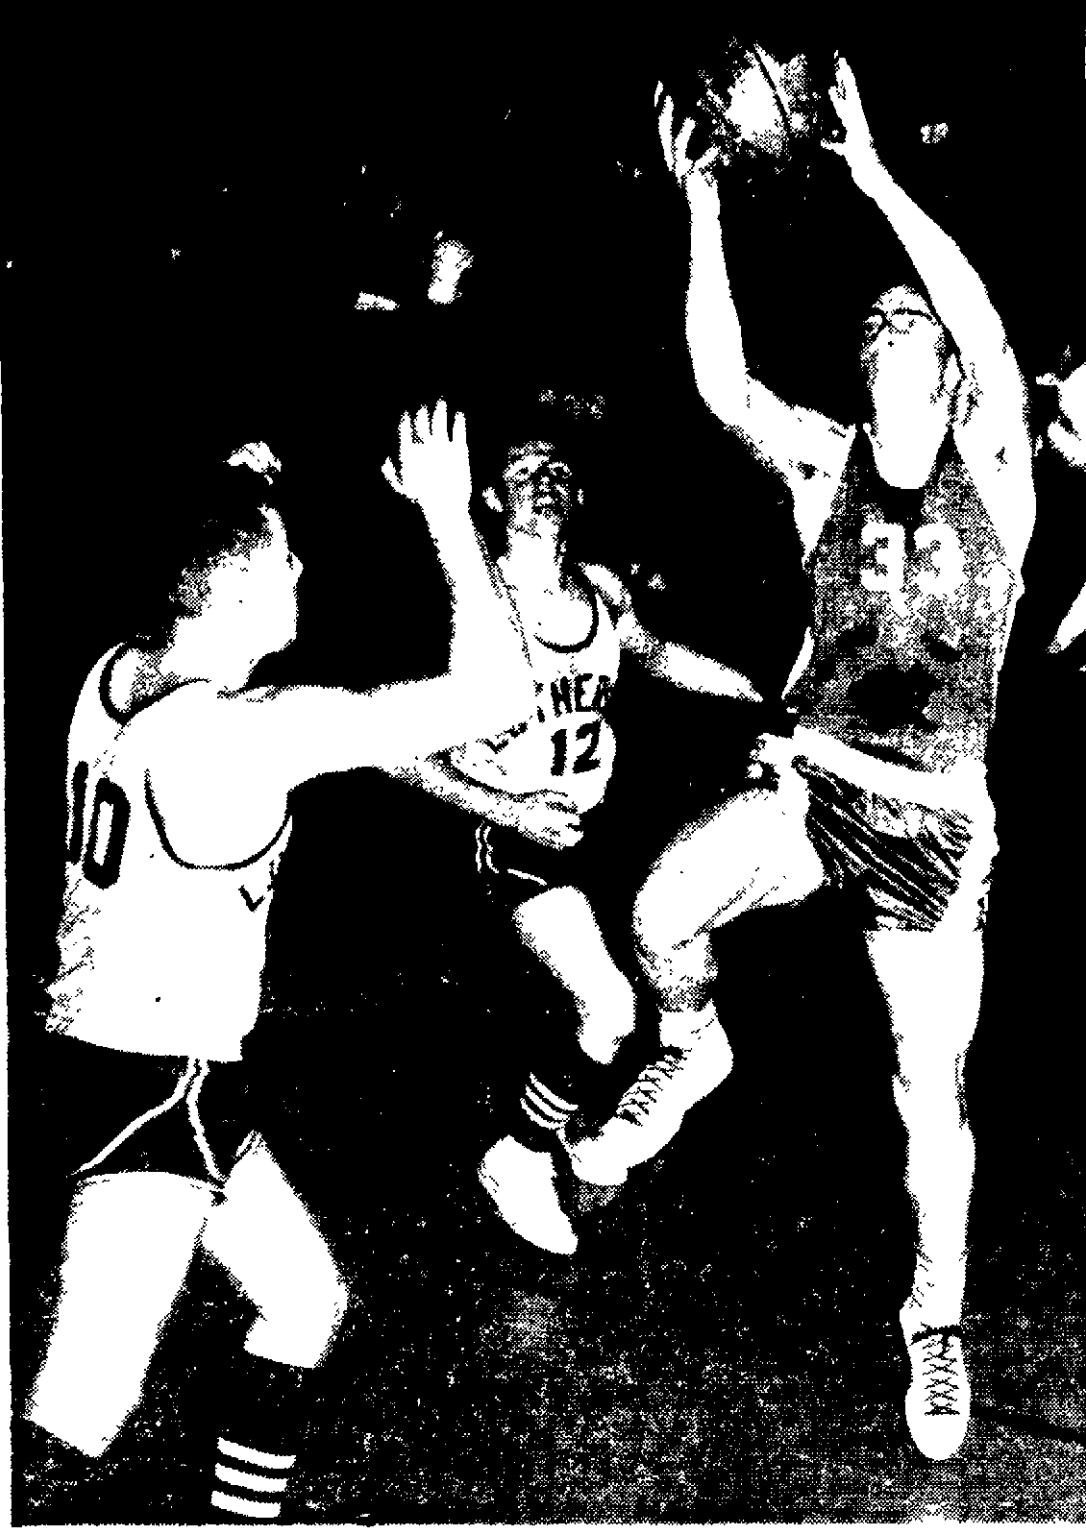

Gene Davis, a member of the Lawrence coaching staff, has been named Wisconsin AAU swim chairman. He succeeds Milwaukee's Ron Berk.

Lions Could Still be Packers' Best Friends

GREEN BAY—The Lions may be the Packers' best friends yet. Detroit was quite rude to Green Bay Thanksgiving Day but the Packers would be willing to let bygones be bygones if the Lions rise up and smote down the Colts and Bears.

Detroit is the only team that plays the two clubs above Green Bay. The Colts are leading with 6-2, while the Bears are second with 4-3-1 in front of the Bays and their 5-4.

The Lions, like Green Bay, will rest Sunday. They invade Baltimore Dec. 4 and then play host to Dallas Dec. 11 and the Bears Dec. 18. The Lions downed the Colts, 30-17, in the earlier match at Detroit and the Bears defeated the Lions, 23-7, last Sunday.

The Packers have three games left—at Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles. The Colts still must play four—the 49ers and Lions in Baltimore and the Rams and 49ers on the West Coast. The Bears entertain Dallas and Green Bay and then visit Cleveland and Detroit.

Green Bay has just one objective—win all three of their remaining games. Anything can happen. The Colts are due to run out of horseshoes, especially in the injury department. The Bears will face a revenge-hungry Packer team and the Chicagoans still must face those Browns, who are traditionally tough on the Bears.

What's more, the Colts have always had trouble winning on the Coast—even with their good teams. The Packers had trouble, too, but not when they started to resemble a "team"—in 1959.

There is still time for much excitement. The Packers, battered, bruised and beaten after two rugged games in five days, are enjoying a free weekend . . . they'll go back to work Monday.

Coach Vince Lombardi and Aides Phil Bengtson, Bill Austin, Norb Hecker and Red Cochran were back at work bright and Sometimes statistics lie. Sometimes they are meaningless. But there is one statistic more than any other that tells why the Philadelphia Eagles are leading the Eastern Conference of the National Football League.

The Philadelphia team has scored 92 points in the last period of eight games it has played, an average of 11½ for each fourth quarter. Why?

Apparently because the Eagles' quick, sure pass receivers—Tommy McDonald, Bobby Walston and Pete Retzlaff—wear down the defenders and make them easy prey for Norm Van Brocklin's late-game passing.

That's what happened last Sunday when the Eagles, behind 10-0, controlled the ball practically the entire last half and scored 10 points in the final quarter to upset the Giants at New York 17-10.

Winning Streak

And that's one reason why the Eagles are 6-point home favorites to beat the Giants (5-2-1) again Sunday and run the Philadelphia winning streak to eight after a season-opening loss to the Cleveland Browns.

If the Eagles' 92 last-period points don't seem impressive, consider that the Baltimore Colts, highest scoring team in the league

Ghost '5' Upsets Sheboygan North

Ken Kavanaugh Scores 21
In 53 to 47 Triumph

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — Displaying long-range accuracy, a scrappy Kaukauna High School basketball team pulled a 53-47 upset of Sheboygan North here Friday night.

Kavanaugh Mayer

It was the first win of the season for Coach Jerry Hopfensperger's quintet. The Ghosts are now 1-1.

Senior Ken Kavanaugh dropped in five points in the last 50 seconds to pull the Ghosts into the lead after North had trailed to cut a 5-point Kaukauna margin to two points with 1:35 remaining.

Hits Long One

Kavanaugh hit a long one, then dribbled through the North defense for a shot jump and added a free throw to give the Ghosts a 52-45 lead. Bill Dwyne kept the North hopes alive with a long one-hander with 20 seconds left. Dennis Priebe sealed it for the Ghosts with a free throw with four seconds showing on the clock.

Kavanaugh sparked throughout the game for the Ghosts as he hit on nine field goal attempts and three of five free throws for 21 points. Most of his shots were long jumps or sets from the outside.

North had difficulty in finding the field goal range and counted only 11 baskets in the game. Hot shooting from the charity stripe kept the Golden Raiders in the contest.

Start Slowly

North hit on 25 of 32 tries on free throws with Charlie Huihregt leading the way with 11 of 13. The losers had only two field goals in the first and fourth periods.

Both teams started slowly with the Ghosts taking a 8-7 first period

Yankees Pay Big Bonus for Pitcher, 18

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have taken their first step in a new bonus policy designed to compete with other clubs for promising young baseball players.

The American League champion Friday paid one of their largest bonuses in signing Howard Kitt, 18-year-old southpaw pitcher sought by every major league club. No sum was disclosed but the payment reportedly was in excess of $50,000.

Kitt, a Columbia University sophomore, posted a record of 40 Oakland (5-5) and Los Angeles victories and one defeat while (6-4) battle for the Western Di-pitching for high school, recreation-union lead in Los Angeles and (10 and sandlot teams.

Season Tough Goal For Badger Cagers

Fast-Break Attack to be Used Again; Schedule Opens Dec. 1

MADISON (AP)—Coach John Erickson is trying to harness enough basketball talent to make Wisconsin the winner of half its games this season.

"That's our goal, 50 per cent and it's a real tough one," he said today.

Badger fans who might think Erickson should raise his sights, are reminded that Wisconsin won just 5 of its 24 games last season and only 3 of 22 in 1958-59. The school's last winning record dates back to 1954 when the count was 12-9.

"We're really improved, but whether we can win any more games with the schedule we have remains to be seen," Erickson said in explaining his guarded prediction.

Eagles Favored To Top Giants

through 6,200 games have scored only 50 in the final period out of a 230 total. Philadelphia's total is 21.

The Colts (6-2) hold the same position in the Western Conference as the Eagles do in the East—a game and a half lead with four to play. After a week off, Baltimore is home Sunday to the San Francisco 49ers (4-4) and the Colts are 15-point favorites.

If the Eagles can take the Giants they need only one more to clinch a tie for the title. Baltimore is also in good shape with only second-division opponents left on the schedule. Unless both conference leaders flop, the Dec. 26 NFL game seems likely to be at Philadelphia where the Colts foot 11 guard from Appleton, the would-be third straight playoff champion.

The Green Bay Packers (5-4) who had the Western lead a few weeks back, lost their second straight, 23-10 to the Detroit Lions men. Huggbanks' prime entry on Thanksgiving Day and now the Bears are the chief threat to the Colts.

Chicago (4-3-1) is favored by 22 over the visiting Dallas Texans (0-9) Sunday. The Browns (5-3) must whip the Cardinals (5-4) at St. Louis to remain in contention in the East. Cleveland is favored by a touchdown.

The East's bottom teams, Pittsburgh (3-5-1) and Washington (1-5-2), round out the schedule. The Steelers favored by 10 over the Redskins who held them to a 27-27 tie at Washington last month. Los Angeles is idle.

early Friday morning, discussing Bear strategy and viewing pictures of the Bears' 23-10 loss to the Lions.

The Cowboy-Bear game will be scouted by Bengtson, Austin and Chief Game Scout Wally Cruice.

Follows Pattern

The Lions game followed the Packers' pattern of little scoring in the first half of three of the last four games. The Bears went scoreless in the first half at Detroit, getting behind 16-0. Against the Rams last Sunday, LA piled up a 20-10 lead. The halftime score was 21-7. Colts, in Baltimore, won the Dallas game, which the Packers led 27-0 at the half. The Packers are not up for consideration today.

Thus, in the Colt-Ram and Lion games, the Packers were on the short end of a composite 57-0, with 157 failed to quality, to 17 halftime score. The Packers charged back in the second halves of those three games to outscore their fans 40 to 27. The Packers are 40-15 in the 17 second half tie. This puts them at the Rams, 21 to 14 and the Lions, 19 to 7, in the second half.

Steve Bull Has 143 Aggregate at Mobile

MORRIS, Ala. (AP)—Steve Bull edged a 20-10 lead, the halftime score of a 143 total and a tie for more. The Dallas game, which the Packers led 27-0 at the half, the Packers are not up for consideration today.

Tom Watabach of Manitowish, Wis., made the cutoff with a 145 total in the 70-73 Bobby Blue of Milwaukee, the short end of a composite 57-0, with 157 failed to quality, to 17 halftime score. The Packers charged back in the second halves of those three games to outscore their fans 40 to 27. The Packers are 40-15 in the 17 second half tie. This puts them at the Rams, 21 to 14 and the Lions, 19 to 7, in the second half.

Committee Studies Question of Public Access to Indian Lands

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Whether the end of federal government care of the Menominee Indians will bring about public access rights to the timberlands, trout streams, hunting grounds and fishing lakes of the tribe in north central Wisconsin is the sticky question being studied by a special committee of state officials and Indians.

The access problem was one of those that the 1959 legislature could not settle when it decided to set up a new Menominee County to encompass the Indian territory that will revert to ordinary status when the national government ends its wardship next year.

Other Counties

Some persons have presumed that the general public will have the right to access on lands and waters within the county, as in Langlade or Oconto or other counties nearby.

But others point out that all of the Indian land will be held by a tribal-owned corporation, and that the corporation may have the right to restrict access even as other upper Wisconsin corporations, including lumber mills, have done upon occasion.

A report on the matter is due before the 1961 legislature, which will meet soon after the turn of the year.

Considering the legal and other complications is a committee consisting of Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto, Assemblyman Gray of Antigo, Bernard Grigon, a tribal leader, Lloyd Andrews of Shawano, tribal counsel, James Frechette, another tribal leader, E. J. Vanderwall of the state conservation department, and John Bowers, assistant attorney general.

Park Development

The legislature has also directed the group to study the possibility of public park development within the limits of the big Indian reservation. The study group was named by the state Menominee Indian study commission, headed by Attorney General John Reynolds.

The Indian reservation has attracted outside sportsmen for years and permits have been issued on a limited basis for outsiders for a fee. The Indians themselves have shown an interest in developing a recreational industry.

REEDSVILLE, Wis. (AP)—Joe Vondrahek couldn't get away on a deer hunting trip this season and decided to scout a thicker on his farm. He shot a 195-pound buck then called two brothers over from neighboring farms for another drive and each shot a deer. The fourth brother returned home from his hunting trip in the north empty handed.

Mackay Wins Despite Show Of Temper

McKinley Keeps Pace in Tourney At Melbourne

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Barry MacKay was "ready to go into orbit" in the Victorian Tennis Championships today, but despite his display of temper he rallied to win a marathon 3-hour battle and gain the quarterfinals.

Keeping pace with the veteran U.S. Davis Cup star from Dayton, Ohio, was Chuck McKinley of St. Louis. However, 18-year-old Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif., disappointed and was eliminated.

MacKay survived boos and catcalls from the gallery of 2,000, to beat unranked Wayne Reid 1-6, 8-6, 12-14, 6-0, 6-3. McKinley beat Reid's brother, Doug, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2. Ralston went down before Barry Phillips Moore 8-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Bartzen Loses

Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, Dallas, Tex., was eliminated by Mike Sangston of England, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Before he was calmed down by David Freed, the U.S. team captain, during the intermission after the third set MacKay seemed on the verge of elimination.

The temperamental Yank twice blew set point in the long third set and when he finally lost the set, he hit the ball high into the stands. The spectators booed lustily as they had done at MacKay's earlier tantrums.

Once MacKay turned to Freed, sitting in the stands, and exclaimed in a loud voice: "This is a day I should have stayed in bed—but I don't have a bed."

The reference was to hotel quarters which the team found unsatisfactory. The Americans moved today into a suburban apartment house.

MacKay said the hotel did not have a bed big enough for his 6-foot, 4-inch frame.

Other players complained they were unable to sleep because of 11 small rooms.

Freed said MacKay reported to the courts in a state of unhappiness over the living quarters and sin, bagged a nine - point buck then had his jumpiness fed by a couple of questionable calls.

Elgin Baylor Pours in 51 Leads Lakers To 141-128 Win In Overtime

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Where would the Los Angeles Lakers be without Elgin Baylor? They shudder to think.

In the past seven games, Baylor has scored 320 points, almost 46 a game. The Lakers have won six of their last seven.

Their streak also has kept them within sight of the St. Louis Hawks, who are leading the Western division of the National Basketball Association. The Lakers trail by 2½ games.

Baylor found the range for 51 points Friday night and the Lakers whipped the Detroit Pistons, 141-128, in overtime. Baylor pulled the Lakers back from a 14-point deficit in the first period, kept them close in the second, broke a 116-116 tie in the final period and tossed in four points in a row in the overtime to settle it.

In the only other game of the night, the Boston Celtics, leading the Eastern Division, edged the New York Knickerbockers 111-110 on Frank Ramsey's two free throws with 15 seconds to go.

The top pass receiver was Pat Richter, a sophomore standout who suffered a broken collarbone Oct. 29. Richter snared 25 passes before being injured.

Bakken set a Wisconsin record in punting by averaging 41.9 yards on 36 boots. The old mark was 41.5 yards by Jim Hammond in 1950.
